MEET YOUR COMMUNICATIONS TEAM!

Hello! My name is Addison Rogers. I am a sophomore, marketing major from Columbus and I'm thrilled to be the chair of this team/committee! I welcome your feedback and ideas, especially right now when this team is just getting started. We could always use more help, so please reach out if you would like to design graphics, take pictures at events, or send us events/topics we should post about!

Hi! My name is Sydney Booth and I'm a sophomore, undecided business major and I intend to minor in Peace, Justice, and Human Rights. I'm in charge of our Instagram platform. Outside of Arrupe, I run on the JCU track team and lead a Carroll Faith Community. I'm looking forward to going on an immersion to Cuba in January 2019.

Hello! My name is Sheelagh Jackson and I'm a senior English major and business minor from Dayton. I'm in charge of this newsletter and editing text for our social media. I work at the writing center so come visit with writing questions! While attempting to figure out my future, I'm also trying to learn the Irish drum...turns out drums are great stress relievers!

Hi! My name is Molly Ross and I'm a sophomore Peace, Justice, and Human Rights and Political Science double major. I'm in Kappa Alpha Theta and I run the twitter account for this communications team.. I'm looking forward to delivery day coming up really soon!

ARRUPE SUMMER ACTIVITIES

Over the summer, Arrupe students took part in many incredible internships, immersions, and more. We're proud of the work you all do in our community and around the world!

CAITLIN GLENNON

This was my second summer working with Experience Mission as a construction manager. It is a mission nonprofit organization. We host teams on mission trips throughout the summer and we build and repair houses for people who cannot afford professional help. It's similar to habitat for humanity. I was on a West Virginia site with a few other students.

ANTONIA PIAZZA

This summer, CSSA sent me to CRS's SALT (Student Ambassador Leadership Training) Summit in Baltimore/DC that focused on migration and global hunger. On our final day, my team had the opportunity to speak with staffers for Ohio's Congresspeople. On behalf of Catholic Relief Services, we urged Congress to provide the highest possible funding for poverty-reducing international development and humanitarian assistance in the upcoming budget. Since funding for international aid is only 1% of the national budget, increasing the funding will have negligible financial effects on Americans while making a significant impact across the world. It was an awesome experience being able to advocate for my brothers and sisters overseas!

MEET JULIA ARNOLD-HESS

Julia Arnold-Hess is the Administrative Assistant for the Signature Scholarship Programs. She is usually the first point of contact for visitors to suite AD 126. Her administrative duties include maintaining communication with faculty, students, and constituent groups; ordering books for Arrupe and Honors students; event coordination; office management; and other tasks as assigned. She also teaches a section of Honors Directed Readings.

Ms. Arnold-Hess is a Milwaukee native and proud graduate of John Carroll (BA - History) and Marquette (MA - Journalism) Universities. She is a freelance writer and previously worked for Saint Ignatius High School and the League of Women Voters. She and her husband, Dan, met at JCU. They live in Rocky River with their three children: Sophia, 17; Brendan, 15; and Billy, 11.

WELCOME BACK PICNIC

No better way to kick off the new Arrupe school year than with the annual welcome back picnic! Despite Cleveland weather forcing us to abandon Edgewater Beach for the LSC Conference room, the Arrupe bonding committee pulled together a great event! There was delicious food, plenty of dancing, and some truly wild skits from each of the classes. Big thanks to Sereen Nasrallah and Cassie Harper for all their hard work :)
