How to Build a Presence on Campus

Our recruiters are impressed by our students' qualifications and experience, specifically their leadership, teamwork, critical thinking and communication skills. Internships are mutually beneficial for employers and students. Students gain valuable experience and employers can convert interns to full-time hires thereby reducing recruitment costs and improving retention rates.

- Academic Internship Courses

John Carroll University offers academic internships. Students have the option to receive 1-3 credit hours or a non-credit transcript notation for their internship experience.

An employer must be willing to provide 135 work hours per semester. In addition, the employer must provide a job description, learning objectives and a performance review at the end of the experience.
