

PRELIMINARY SYLLABUS

HM 503-1, Introduction to Graduate Research and Writing

Summer II, 2015: June 15-July 16, 2015

This course has been designed as a HYBRID course, one that blends on-site and on-line educational formats. Official class hours are MWR from 6:30 to 9:20 p.m. However, we will meet only one day per week on campus, ordinarily on Monday evenings. The rest of the course will be conducted on-line using the Canvas course management system. The on-line portion of the course will be asynchronous; students participate, complete assignments, and post comments on-line at times convenient to them.

Instructor Information and Communication Strategy:

Instructor: Dr. Brenda A. Wirkus
Office: B26a in the basement of the AD Bldg. off its main corridor
Phone: 216-397-4787
E-mail: wirkus@jcu.edu
Office hours: On-campus on Mondays from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.
Available at other times by appointment.
I will be available by e-mail and will respond within 24 hours except on weekends.

Course Description:

HM 503 is one of the three foundational courses for our Humanities M.A. Program. In the Graduate Studies Bulletin it is described as the “critical exploration of special topics as the basis from which to develop graduate-level research and writing skills.” Critical thinking, expressed through solid research and clear writing, serves as the foundation for all academic and professional pursuits. Each student will develop these skills through the researching and writing of an essay that contains a clear thesis statement and produces an argument utilizing appropriate evidence. This project will also serve as a dress rehearsal, as it were, for the M.A. essay or thesis (HM 598 or 599). Students will also practice evaluation of the research and writing of their peers.

Course Objectives:

1. To introduce the student to the basics of research at the graduate level by acquainting him/her with various research tools, methodologies, and resources, including the library.

2. To assist the student in learning how to design a research project.
3. To pay special attention to teaching students the humanities methodology of careful and attentive reading, uncovering underlying assumptions, and explicating texts.
4. To introduce the student to fundamentals of graduate-level writing by undertaking the writing of a research paper through its various stages.

Learning Outcomes:

Upon completion of this course, the student should be able to

1. understand the principles of research,
2. know how to use a library and its various resources,
3. formulate an appropriate research question,
4. design a research project,
5. evaluate the works of major intellectual figures by employing critical methods,
6. apply those same methods in engaging in peer evaluation,
7. draft an argumentative essay through a number of stages, and
8. produce a final project that incorporates conceptual analysis, clear thinking, and scholarly writing skills.

Course Requirements:

Required Text: The Craft of Research, edited by Wayne Booth, Gregory Colomb, and Joseph Williams. University of Chicago Press. Now available in third edition at the JCU Bookstore.

A list of suggested supplemental texts will be made available as the course develops.

The major course requirement is a term paper/research essay 17-20 pages in length. That paper will go through three drafts, one peer-reviewed and one instructor-reviewed. This project will count for 50% of the student's final grade for the course.

Each student will also engage in on-line peer review of a colleague's essay. Peer review will count for 10% of the student's final grade.

Participation in the on-line discussion forum, including answering posted questions and responding weekly to student and instructor comments, will account for 30% of the student's grade.

Lastly, attendance and participation will account for the final 10% of the student's grade.

Assessment rubrics for each component of the course will be provided.

We shall follow the grading scale outlined on page 15 of the John Carroll University 2012-2014 Graduate Studies Bulletin with the following point assignment for grades:

A	4 points	Graduate students are expected to maintain a 3.0 average and will receive a warning letter from the Dean for a grade of B-.
A-	3.7 points
B+	3.3 points
B	3 points
B-	2.7 points
C+	2.3 points
C	2 points

The Canvas website is our primary means of on-line communication. All information, including syllabus and assignments, will be available on that site. Instruction in how to navigate the Blackboard site will be provided during the first week of class, along with practice activities.

Please save a copy of all of your assignments.

ACADEMIC HONESTY is the fundamental principle which guides intellectual inquiry and the life of the university. Plagiarism will not be tolerated and will be met, at the very least, with a grade of "F" for that particular piece of work.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: John Carroll University recognizes its responsibility for creating an institutional climate in which students with disabilities can succeed. In accordance with University policy, if you have a documented disability, you may be eligible to request accommodations from the office of Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD). Please contact the SSD coordinator at 216-397-4967 or go to the office located in room 7A in the Garden Level of the Administration Building. After your eligibility for accommodations is determined, you will be given a letter which will help me determine how best to assist you. Please keep in mind that accommodations will not be granted retroactively; register immediately.

POLICIES ON BIAS AND MUTUAL RESPECT. The University cannot function unless each member of the community is welcomed, respected, and free to pursue his/her scholarly interests without fear of discrimination, harassment, bias, abuse, and other forms of violence. University policies may be located at: <http://sites.jcu.edu/deanofstudents/pages/community-standards/hate-free-policy/> and <http://sites.jcu.edu/bias/>

Preliminary Course Calendar:

Each week will include on-line postings of discussion questions which must be answered by week's end, 11:59 p.m. EDST of the Friday of each week. Unless noted otherwise, all Monday classes will meet on JCU's campus.

Week One:	Monday, June 15	Introduction to course, to one another, and to Canvas
	Weds., June 17	Craft of Research , chapters one and two. Post comment or response to prompt.
	Thurs., June 18	Craft , chapters three through six. Post comment or response.
Week Two:	Mon., June 22	Introduction to JCU's library resources
	Weds., June 24	Craft , chapters seven through ten
	Thurs., June 25	Posting of brief essay, free writing, topic exploration.
Week Three:	Mon., June 29	Essay proposal and topic to be shared with class. Suggestions offered by peers.
	Weds., July 1	Develop outline and articulate research plan. Instructor will respond. Write first draft.
	Thurs., July 2	No class – holiday.
Week Four:	Mon., July 6	Bring draft of essay to class for sharing and discussion. Peer review.
	Weds., July 8	Craft , chapters eleven through fifteen. Revise draft in light of those considerations.
	Thurs., July 9	Post penultimate draft on-line.
Week Five:	Mon., July 13	Instructor review of draft, feedback, and individual conferences as needed/wanted.
	Weds., July 15	Final revisions.
	Thurs., July 16	Final submission of course essay.

This syllabus and schedule of assignments are subject to revision as necessary. More calendar detail will follow.