

Vigilant Global Trade Services, LLC would like to honor the contributions and sacrifices made by our Nation's veterans by announcing the introduction of our disabled veterans Global Trade Compliance training and hiring program. Vigilant is committed to providing free training to qualified disabled veterans interested in pursuing a career in global trade compliance, as well as an opportunity to join our team of trade compliance professionals.

Vigilant is offering qualified disabled veterans another career focused on protecting our Nation by helping our clients remain compliant with global trade regulations. We assist our clients' efforts to comply with both import and export trade regulations, which help to protect our country from acts of terrorism amongst other risks to our Nation's citizens and economy.

Vigilant is excited to help disabled veterans train for employment opportunities in the high growth global trade compliance market. The market for global trade is being driven by international trade growth and increasingly complex trade regulations. International trade has grown at almost three times the rate of global GDP over the last ten years. In parallel, global expansion has increased the complexity of trade regulatory requirements placed on multinational corporations, which has opened up new career opportunities.

Vigilant Global Trade Services is a leader in providing global trade management systems oversight, monitoring and compliance. We help our clients ensure compliance while improving their global trade management system's processes and controls, security and cash flow. "Keeping our country safe and helping companies remain compliant without negatively impacting their bottom lines is what we think about every day at Vigilant. In order to remain a market leader, we need people who are intelligent, dedicated, detail oriented, effective communicators and have a sense of urgency to resolve issues in a timely manner. We know that military veterans have a great background to help us make a difference." Dave Moore – President & Founder, Vigilant Global Trade Services.
